

I am in an airport getting ready to board a plane. My spiritual friend is with me but he already rushes to the gate. I then follow him and manage to get on the plane but it is very old and I feel very unsafe on board. It actually only starts flying very low and over an ancient Indian city.

I am with a rock band crossing a big field where people are already singing a song. I then get on the stage and start singing it myself. It is a big success but then my fellow musicians start singing another song on the piano. It is extremely boring and I decide to sing another song very loud.

I am watching a movie about a guy on the edge of a castle. He is about to fall but manages to pull himself up and meets the Italian fascist leader. She is quite impressed with him and asks if she can give him a lift. He wants to go with a horse and she invites him for a romantic date together.

I am with my old friends in an apartment and watch one of them turn on a gas stove. It works quite well and we gather around it. My friends then tell me they want to spend time with me in the mountains and one of them claim to be a relative of one of our friends who owns a restaurant.

I am outside the house of an old friend and ask him through the window where he wants me to install a small roof. I want it straight on the window but it is actually too small and does not make any sense. He wants it to the side and I realize that its only function would be to protect me.

I am walking with my children through our Dutch village. I want to go home but they want to go to play at a friend's house. I let them and just go home to do other things but then realize that is dangerous that they are out all alone and call their mother to hear if she can go check on them.

I am in my native village with my best friend. It is evening already but I see a little crowd around a famous football player. He is still skinny but I know he will soon get fat and die. There are also two actors who are already very fat but my friend has actually lost weight and I congratulate him.

I am waiting below a sanctuary for my partner to come with a local friend. The later has a villa there and he is showing it to her. There are other villas there and I know they are quite cheap but his is actually a caravan and I see it opening and closing as if it was a flower that is blossoming.

I am in my mother's house just about to go out when I notice a closet I have never seen. I then open it and see that there are several ancient crosses made of ivory. They are the symbol of death but next to them there are black and white pictures of my sister and I. They are the symbol of life.

I am watching a small documentary about a Chinese guy who became viral after filming himself next to a no-filming zone. The cameraman is actually inside a helicopter and he shows the old skyscraper where the guy lives. There he owns a room with a lot of seats where his friends can sleep.

I am in a big square with all of my old friends on one side standing in a choir and singing. We are actually quite good but the song soon ends and everyone gets silent. I then walk in the middle of the square and start another old song. I sing the first stanza and my friend reply with another.

I am in a building where the world table tennis tournament is about to start. The coach of the Japanese team tells me that he is ready and I walk up to the organizers to announce it. There is another Japanese girl but she is very lame and I throw an olive against her saying that it is a ball.

I am in the back of a fantasy castle and call my daughter to see it. As she checks it out with a friend I see that there is a big banquet with food from all the characters. One of them is a native American and gives a lot of roasted salmon but I prefer to eat buffalo meat and he gets it for me.

I am on a street at night fetching a pile of wood I left there. Someone has set it on fire and I use my feet to turn it off. Other guys come to help me and then take the wood and load it in the back of my van. I then back up but hit another and as I try to escape I end up on top of a roundabout.

I am visiting a girl in her bedroom. She got very sick because I did not treat her so well. She was actually in love me but now she is dying and I pick her up. She has transformed into an adapter and I see myself in a mirror kissing her where the contact is so that I can give her power.

I am on a train getting back to my seat but notice that the girlscout who was sitting next to me got very ugly. I then sit in front of her and see that she is that the pretty girlscout is actually on the opposite side sitting next to a very fat boyscout. She is correcting her students' homework.

I am inside a big camper with my children. We actually want to watch a movie and I push the camper of some old family friends to the front so that we can use the battery to power my computer. As I try to make the connection another family comes to explain me how the camper works.

I am in a dormitory and realize that my suitcase is full of money. I then hide it on top of the bunk bed where my daughter has to sleep and bring her to sleep with me on a very big mattress. There are also other people laying there and we only have a portion at the bottom and it is too narrow.

I am sitting at a restaurant with a group of Turkish designers. As I observe their light complexion one of the princess sits next to me. She is already getting old but wants to marry one of the boys. I then realize what a whore she is and how easily she lets others touch her without protesting.

I am running without my t-shirt on and realize my chest is very hairy. I feel like a savage and just make it over a bridge with a lot of girls. I try to cover my chest with my red t-shirt but some of them notice me but I tell them that they are too neolithic and what I am after is a paleolithic woman.

I am working in a forest when a group of German tourists comes. They want to make it up the mountain above us but I tell them that it is going to take them at least a couple of hours and it is getting dark. They then decide to walk back but I invite them to do it with me the following day.

I am in the villa of a Roman aristocrat. My sister and I are actually the slaves with another man and we decide to grab some food and run out from the back. There are some fences and we manage to jump over them and down the hill along some high bushes where no one is able to see us.

I am watching a movie about a guy who has to cross the canal of an old city but there is no bridge. There are actually some stairs and below is a little piece of metal that can take him across but it floats away and two Moroccan thugs get on him. He then decides to jump in the water.

I am in a big hall where I just gave my dissertation and get ready to leave. I feel good about it but a teacher tells me from the ground floor that I got a lower score because I did not pay attention to one question. I do not care since I did not study for my topic and only found it in an old book.

I am running with a football player up a road in the night and see that there is a bus leaving. It is very old and crowded but I anyway squeeze myself in. There is a dodgy person next to me and I make it to the back but feel a gypsy trying to steal the camera I have in the pouch on my belt.

I am in a mall when a group of girls surround me. I refer to them as chicks but they want to be called sweethearts. They are actually homeless and take me to a place underground. Their leader gets naked and starts washing herself in a public bathroom while an old man is chained to the wall.

I am biking on a busy road and have to get in front of a car to get on the right lane to turn. I then get on a road that is completely empty but there is a very tall bridge ahead. I go very fast to the top and even manage to make a big jump. I land that I can barely hold on to my handlebar.

I am in a small restaurant run by some young guys. There are no costumers and they just keep in one room playing poker. I then wonder how they survive but then go to another room and see that there are big paintings of them playing poker with other costumers showing in the background.

I am outside of a factory talking to my sister about our mother. She tells me that the latter has started her own company with an employee. The two are now producing a special packaging fusing two different type of plastics together. The plastics are rare but my rich uncle is their provider.

I am in a hotel and move out of one room. A lady is already sleeping inside and I take the elevator to a new room. It is on the top floor where I know that poor people lives. I actually have to go through a mall and realize I will now have to live very far from the hotel in a whole new district.

I am in the attic of our Dutch house and wake up with my mother also getting ready to start the day. We actually hear the entrance door opening and I realize that my sister spent the whole night outside partying. She comes up and I expect our mother to tell her off but she just let her sleep.

I am in a apartment waiting for my new classmate to come for dinner. They are not showing up and I just look outside. Two of them are waiting at the gate and one of them has a baby. I then immediately let them in and serve them some food. They are happy it is vegetarian but I did by meat.

I am watching a friend's profile and see that he posted a video about swimming in a canyon. He goes quite deep in it and finds a rock from where to jump. I then see him walking up to that rock and then jumping down but the water turns into snow and instead of sinking he lands on his feet.

I am getting on a bus but it is very busy and I just use another door. The driver sees me and asks for my ticket. I then show it to him and look for a seat but a girl is occupying one with her luggage. I then sit next to another girl even though my luggage is very big and she is squeezed in.

I am sitting on a long table in a garden when a famous director comes sitting next to me. I know that she is searching for a kindergarten for her daughter and I tell her about my children's school. She is very interested and I tell her of another director whose children are attending that school.

I am in a metro station and see that a Sicilian guy is trying to cross the gate without ticket. I then show him how to jump over it but he is too short and barely manages to make it to the top of the gate. I am afraid he is going to get caught but he manages in the end to jump down and join me.

I am in my mother's city and see that there is a parade and I cannot go out of the historical center. I then asks some local guys what to do and one of them shows me a side road I can take. It goes the opposite direction from where I have to go but I take it anyway and manage to get out.

I am in a car with my partner driving and I show her the ugly villa of a friend. It is on top of the hills and we also start going up. The road is quite scary and we pull over at a gas station where a guy is washing his little car and then starts washing that of a friend before letting us wash ours.

I am brushing my teeth on the old sink of a big kitchen. My partner's older brother is next to me removing hairs from his chin. He has a lot of hairs and his wife just put herself behind me to also remove hairs from her chin. I am blocked by the two of them and I cannot move anywhere.

I am in a hotel and shower but realize that I need to go to the beach and will have to anyway shower when I get back. It is too hot to go out but I notice that my best friend is out anyway and without any sun lotion. He comes back completely tanned after having roamed around the dunes.

I am in a library with my bike and want to get out but it is now closed. I then manage to get through a portal that leads me to a hospital. There is no direct way to the exit and I take the elevator all the way up the building to find a way all the way down but a woman working there tells me off.

I am in the office of the politician who is taking care of the sculptural park in my native highland. He shows me that he is also an artist and makes tapestries. They are actually quite good and he tries to convince me to get back to painting but I want to stick to my plan to make an installation.

I am watching a music video of an artist who uses a lot of quotes. They appear one after the other with very clean illustrations accompany them. As I focus on the actual text I realize that they are all coming from the holy scriptures and that the singer must be very religious and quite twisted.

I am in the garden of a condominium where I just bought an apartment. There is an ancient tower in the middle and I walk to the top. There is no view from there but I still find it very interesting that we have an ancient monument in the middle of our garden where a Japanese guy also lives.

I am walking through a big American city and hear shots on a parallel road. I then peek through a side road and see that the police is shooting at a group of protesters. They are only there to protest against the increasingly authoritarian regime and are completely harmless but not afraid.

I am with my twin sister outside a house and she takes me inside. My best friend is working in the basement and she takes a picture of him. She also takes a picture of us two and explain that she bought a silver frame where our three pictures can go. It is a present for my friend.

I am in my oldest son's farm and his grandfather shows me some old tapes. I then see my son when he was young riding on a quad. His grandmother is also there and tells me to sit with her. I do so and she starts telling me of a Scandinavian legend as if she wants to imply something.

I am on a site where a city should have been constructed. There is now only an exhibition and I come to the part that explains how the main church should have been constructed. I see a drawing of it and find the drawing of the cupola ingenious with the big columns twisting around it.

I am in the expensive jeep of my German friend trying to drive out of a parking space. I am actually sitting in the back and try to drive back and forth even though I can barely see if I am touching the cars parked next to me. I almost manage to drive out my German friend come to stop me.

I am in a big but low garage waiting to get out but there is a doorman blocking the way. He is instructing another man on how to go about and I hear that he will need to take a detour south in order to go up north. I also need to go up north but I am not convinced that I should first go south.

I am walking around a small island with my youngest son. The water looks clean but we don't have a swimsuit. We actually reach a spot with a very pretty little island in front of us and I see that there are some wooden poles we can stand on to reach it. As we try to do so I get in the water.

I am in an apartment with my stepfather and he tells me that he has a disease in his bones. I feel sorry for him but he tells me that he just needs to keep on taking the same medicine. He then gets it out and prepares a syringe out and loads it with the medicine before shooting it in his arm.

I am watching a movie about a superhero who asks his master to be sent to a mission. The latter shows him the map of the territory he will have to cross. He then teletransports him there but the hero has to get in a dark tunnel. He has his balustrade ready and sees two creatures approaching.

I am walking up a mountain road with some guys and meet some local girls. We then ask them how to get across and one of them tells us of a nice road back down but one replies that there is also one further up. As they keep on walking one of my friend make a vulgar comment on her ass.

I am in a hotel when a waiter comes with sandwiches. Another host wants them but the waiter insists that they are for my family and I. I then accept them and he asks what kind of drinks we want. I order some juices even though I start thinking it could be very expensive and unaffordable.

I am with one of my partner's colleague showing me a picture she took of an Italian castle. She claims that it is in the near of the capital but I am sure it is a much more recent castle. I then take her phone to prove it and start thinking of some tags to add to her profile until she gets offended.

I am in a stable with another guys who is helping me putting up a fence to delimit my new workshop. We are actually doing a good job and only have to close one side where there are some furniture. We don't have enough wood to close it off but then I realize that I need a gap to access it.

I am laying next to a lake looking at a boy swimming with a big inflatable in the shape of goggles. I find the water too cold but then I see the earth richest man also swimming. I then wait for him to come out and tell him that he should give me one of his electric cars to show off in my village.

I am in my oldest son's villa waiting to attend a show. There are a lot of people and the director starts dividing half of us based on our age. He does not select me at first but then put me together with my age group. I then follow it outside in the veranda waiting for the rest to be sorted.

I am at a station with my children and see that the bus we have to take is parked in front of a restaurant. We go inside and find that the driver is eating. The time of our departure is approaching but I anyway decide to order fries for the children. We sit so that I can keep an eye on the driver.

I am going with a skateboard on the big sidewalk of a large city. I know the way but there is a road work and have to take a detour. It makes me cross another road and then go down a bike path. It is quite steep and I decide to stay sited on the skateboard and use my feet to break.

I am in a cafe with an Asian family. They are the relatives of one of my old classmates' new husband. She is actually living in an Asian country and just left him and his family back home. They even have a daughter and I realize she looks very much like her and I start playing with her.

I am in a park and find a cave where two opera singers are performing. There is a paprika in front of them and the male singer tries to break it with his voice. He does not manage and the female singer starts with an even stronger voice but the paprika only starts to pulsate without breaking.

I am walking up an iron tower with my partner. As she reaches the top I hand her our son who is just between us. I am too afraid to go up myself but he wants to see the view. I then also try to pull myself up to see it but realize that the tower is just as high as the hill and there is no view.

I am in a cafe sitting between an Italian philosopher and a Swedish one. I suddenly realized that they have been studying in the same university and that even their supervisor was the same. As I let them talk to one another I see it is getting late and I have a presentation to make elsewhere.

I am in a car with my sister going up a mountain. I think she is driving but I see that she is just resting her head on the dashboard and I have the wheel. I then try to focus but it is rainy outside and I cannot see well. I realize I have my reading glasses on and I remove them to see better.

I am in a shop buying grocery when my parents also drive in with their car. There are a lot of nice tomatoes in a big crate but my stepfather wants to buy a dew of them in a little package. He is afraid that they won't fit in his car but I tell him that we can just hold them between our legs.

I am walking in a city and come in front of an art gallery. There is a long monitor with the video of an artist inside. He shows a fashion designer leaning against a sock until he gets very old and dies. The next video shows a Mexican man with a corncob in his mouth but nothing happens to him.

I am in the basement of a villa with one of my old friends. He is telling how he became an expert in reviving gas tanks. I actually don't understand and he explains that after a tank gets refilled with gas it needs to be restart it by putting a balloon on the exhaustion and blowing fresh air inside.

I am on a beach with a girl who is curious about my project. As I talk to her I realize that we are standing in the water and my equipment is getting all soaked. I then pull myself out and try to show her a website with my work but the browser is very old and I can only show her a catalogue.

I am in a restaurant with my stepfather. He is now too old and tells me that they did not do any holidays this year. I then realize that the weekend they came to visit me was the only time they were doing a bit of holiday and I should have invested more time on them than I actually did.

I am on top of a hill with a young woman. The sun has already set and it is time to go but I have to go to the bathroom. There is one inside an abandoned resort and I enter but a snake starts crawling fast on the ceiling and then station itself in front of the bathroom door while I am inside.

I am at the bottom of a hill with an Italian friend. There is a beautiful stream in front of us and I can see that we can cross it first over a modern bridge and then over an ancient bridge. From there we actually walk along a bigger bridge and make it all the way to the ocean that is not far.

I am in a hotel room with the family of my Dutch musician friend. I first think that he is snoring in bed but then realize that he is actually singing a nice lullaby to his daughter. His wife tells him to stop but he explains to her that it is their daughter who chose the lullaby from a compilation.

I am driving an old car to a mechanic and just park it in front of his garage. He comes out and tells me that he has no time at the moment but I really want to sell him the car and get a new one. I then wait for him and realize that the car is actually very good and I should not sell it.

I am in our Dutch house with the director of an art school. She is actually thankful that I held a lecture for her students but I start saying that the book I based my lecture on is perhaps not feminist enough. She did not even think about it but I keep on criticizing and think of a different one.

I am on the bus going in the Italian capital. People already get off at a stop and I also get off and find myself in a modern square with a giant screen. I make a video of it and then listen to an old lady playing a traditional song. I then realize that her village was destroyed to build the square.

I am walking in the mountains and end up in my parents' house. They are not there but I manage to get in and remove the alarm. I then call my stepfather but he tells me that he has a broken wrist and cannot drive up. My mother is also not very happy that I am there and I decide to leave.

I am a soldier in a city occupied by the Nazis. There is a truce and I decide to go to the bathroom but only find one for officers. I then get on a line thinking that it is to go to the normal bathroom but realize that it is the line to get imprisoned in a concentration camp where I will be exterminated.

I am walking with a dog in a park and see another man laying with his dog on a dike. I then lay with him and start caressing my dog. He tells me he is an English worker and I tell him that I was just laying with another man on another dike. His partner just died so I leave him alone.

I am on a beach and realize that the water level is rising. The cliffs are too high to climb so I walk further to another beach where there are other people. The water is rising also there and one of them tries to swim to a big rock where he can be safe but I don't see how he can climb it.

I am in a restaurant and go to the kitchen to ask for bread. The cook just asks me if we want butter or not. I tell them that it is fine with and he gives me three pieces. I then wonder how he knows that we are three persons but then realize that we are first on the list and the bread was piled up.

I am in a park with the parents of my children's classmates. They are actually arranging the benches so that we can attend a show altogether. An overdosed parent wants me to sit with my son next to her gay son but I don't feel like it and just take my own chair and sit between two benches.

I am on a hill getting ready to do a barbecue but my little camera falls down. It stops not so far from me and I can still get it but then it starts rolling further down. I then have to walk down some staircases and find that my youngest son is also going down without paying much attention.

I am with my Italian philosopher friend crossing the big city where he lives. We are actually going to attend a concert together and bike next to the stage where the band is rehearsing. We then make it to my van so that I can leave my backpack but find that it was unlocked all the time.

I am in the school yard of my children and find it way too crowded. I feel sorry for my children and follow one inside the warehouse where all their toys are stored. He starts playing football there with other kids and I really like it but then a guard comes to tell them off and I feel very sorry.

I am in a classroom packed with students when the teacher tells us to get ready to fight with one another. I then get a pencil ready to stab anyone attacking me but then decide to runaway. I just pretend to go to the bathroom and keep on running out across a residential area and into a forest.

I am in a villa with also my former American girlfriend. She has a son and I suggest we should go with also my partner and our children to a farm run by artists. She has no idea what I am talking about even though we used to go there when we were still together and her friends are running it.

I am walking down a road and see that my mountain neighbours are in a field. As I come closer to them I hear that one is claiming that it is better to spit when one smokes. The other does not agree and just says that it is better to exhale some of the smoke to prevent any deadly disease.

I am sitting in a park with the mother of one of my youngest son's classmates. She is too close to me and I really dislike her. I actually realize she might be a guy and pretend to tickle her so that I can feel whether she has a breast. She is completely flat and I definitively want to get away.

I am outside my ark in the mountains talking to a couple who just came to visit it. I wonder whether is possible to invite people to see it but then another couple arrives with a dog. I let them inside but the staircase is covered in branches. I then realize that it has rotated and I turn it back.

I am in a big farm and see that someone has turned my tractor on. It is going backward but stops against a building. I then run down to turn it off but there is a much bigger tractor coming with a lot of iron. It is for a young boy who is planning to sell it and make some money to survive.

I am watching the news and see that there was a group of Japanese people barricading themselves inside a sauna. The president sent a martial art expert who was able to break in and hit everyone. I then see the hero walking through pools filled with different insects that regenerate the skin.

I am in an airport waiting for a bus to take me to the city. I realize I have to be on the other side of the road to take the fastest root and see that my oldest son is also close by. We then get on the other side together but he has lost a bag and we inquire at the lost and found but they don't have it.

I am in a shop buying a string to put around the axes of my van. The shop assistant actually recognizes that I am an artist and wants to give me a discount. He also shows me an illustration that explains all the other products I need to put in the other parts of the car but they are too many.

I am in a abandoned villa with another guy who is actually squatting a room. He has issues with the chimney and wants to put a new pipe. I then tell him to wait and inspect it for him. It is actually made of plastic and I start pulling out the pieces to see if some of them are obstructed.

I am walking with my partner in a residential area and reach a lane with the same type of houses in a row. We actually need to fix the bike of a psychoanalyst living there and find it parked in front of one house. I then pull it out but see that the man is inside watching us and he is surprised.

I am in an art supply store searching for a present to buy for my daughter. I find some coloured pencils and see that a small set is very expensive. There is a booklet that comes with it and I find that there is a letter written in one of the pages. I then think of asking the cashier for a discount.

I am in the apartment of an old girlfriend talking to her mother about her husband who has a hotel up in the mountains. He actually comes home that I am about to leave and ask her daughter to follow me outside although he is very ugly. She does so but starts running on a sidewalk and falls.

I am running inside my children's school and do not greet anyone. Inside there is a party with all the parents and I anyway decide to play football over their heads. I use the whiteboard as a goal and hit the ball across the room but miss it. I then realize none of the kids are playing with me.