

I am outside an American university with three very important professors. One of them announces me that they have selected me to present at a conference. I am delighted but then they ask me to run with them around the little Japanese garden where we are standing. We do so over and over.

I am in a room with one of my Dutch neighbours. She wants me to look perfect and makes me promise I will always wear a suit. I agree and then walk to a shop to get one but I hear the Bengali shop assistant saying on the phone how bad my neighbour is. I then decide not to listen to her.

I am driving an expensive white car to the house where I lived when I was a teenager. My neighbour is also driving a white car and I first think is coming out of our street but then he start driving backward to his house. I then see that he is pulling a black bed for his young daughter.

I am in a n attic eating with my old friends and see my sister eating with her family in the garden below. I then ask her how are they doing and she tells me that they are very busy with work. I then jell to them that they are very busy getting supported by my parents but they do not react.

I am walking out of a school where my daughter and youngest son are studying but suddenly get stopped by one of the parents. I accidentally took his jacket and he starts pulling it away from me. I then try to reach my partner but she is also quite violent and doesn't want me near.

I am on a street and just hide on a bus. The diver is inside and also wants to help me. She then starts driving up and down the street but there is a dog that knows me and starts barking. I wonder how it knows I am in the bus and realize that it must be able to smell my presence from afar.

I am in a forest ready to install my photographic panels. They are all in a heavy box and I have no idea how I am going to put them up. As I try to think of a way a guy with a forklift arrives and offers to help me. It is a great opportunity but I am not sure how to proceed with the installation.

I am walking on the hills but realize I have to make it back home. I then decide to cross a field but there is a shepherd coming down with his dog and I just walk on the path not to scare it. I reach a restaurant on a hill where other shepherds want to watch a movie but don't know which one.

I am in a hotel facing the seaside and realize there is quite a storm outside. The waves are big and I am supposed to get on a ferry with other people. I then go out to talk to them but they are very chilled and just lay on a big rock. One of them has a snake that was half dead but is now alive.

I am with a friend in a small country and I follow him to a store selling electronics. They are very cheap but the man at the cashier explains to us that if we buy them they are going to be seized by the border patrol. We can only buy socks and drinks without getting into troubles with the police.

I am in my daughter's room and hear from my partner that there are wasps inside one of the windows. I then notice one crawling in the corner of the frame and realize that there is a nest. I try to spray some poison inside it but it spreads allover the room and also on the room below it.

I am sitting next to a lake with my youngest son and let him throw earth next to the water. There is also an old lady there and she gets angry about it. She wants to report us to the director and I try to explain to her that it is a very easy job to clean up the earth and make it look like before.

I am inside a security van with another colleague. He is driving and we reach our headquarter but they have added a gate. He then gives me a device I have to scan but he worries that we are not going to succeed. There is actually another gate to the left and it matches the name of our company.

I am on a road with my uncle's wife and get upset with her talking shit about my family. She then promises to talk to my uncle about it and I lift her up from her arms and throw her on the ground. She still insults me and I just pull her from her ears and throw her hat like a frisbee.

I am biking behind another guy following a straight road. It is getting dark and I am afraid that cars cannot see us. The other guy manages to get on the sidewalk but I try and realize that my brakes do not work. I then keep on the road and prepare to use my feet in case there is an intersection.

I am in the house of my partner's older brother and find that they just bought the stable next to them. I can see how they can now use it to make a bigger kitchen and realize there is even a floor above. They could turn that into a bedroom and I see how lucky they have been with the purchase.

I am on a dike where a lot of people are parking their cars. Ours is already park and I just hang out with my kids but suddenly need to cough. There are worms coming out of my mouth and I see them moving on the ground. I must have an infection but don't say it and let my children kill them.

I am outside a big villa helping my partner's nephews to empty out the car of their parents. As they live the roof of the car starts folding automatically. I then wonder how can the seats be left without cover but a transparent sheet starts coming out. Also the license plates turn into screens.

I am in a class teaching a group of students but realize that we are one hour late with our schedule and there was a journalist waiting for us an hour earlier. I then go down to the reception to see if she is still around but she left. I try to call her but she doesn't answer and I feel bad about it.

I am with my best friend walking down the staircase of a condominium. I want to invite him to eat grilled meat but he tells me that he became vegetarian. I then realize that I have offered meat to him once before but I cannot understand how such a meat eater like him made such a choice.

I am walking up a field to my parents place in the mountains. My spiritual friend is with me but he wants to take a road going down and I tell him that we still have to go up. We end up in front of a big monument of a king and climb to the top but the rocks of the pedestal starts moving around.

I am inside a restaurant and see through the window a very old friend I haven't seen for a long time. I then go out to say hi to him and find that there is also another friend I haven't seen in a long time. I hug him first although I was more excited to see the other friend who has now long hair.

I am in a private university waiting for my new professor. He is late and I get to go in a big classroom with other students. Some black people shows us silly videos until the professor comes. He starts going around with magic rocks and then lets me present my work but it doesn't start.

I am in a city and come to a little market. A woman is sawing a traditional Swedish shoes and I start speaking Swedish to her. I do not understand whether she is Swedish or not but then her son comes up and I realize he can. I then get his phone number and immediately write him a message.

I am on a train with a famous sculptor from my native highland. He is next to a Dutch woman and they start to ease one another. Meantime the train gets over a very high bridge and I see below a sculptural park. There is no progress with it but the sculptor tells me they have a lot going on.

I am driving in an old city and realize I have to be higher up. I have a map with me and decide to turn on a road that will bring me on a parallel road. There are actually too many rocks and I get stuck on one of them. I then release the handbrake to go back and manage very smoothly.

I am in a building a press a random number to access a door. I end up in front of my family clinic and I go in drinking a soda. My sister is there and takes me to the room where my old mountain neighbour has been treated. I really look forward to meet her once again but she has been released.

I am in a cemetery and come to a place that is full of many white statues. They are all not too big but quite tall as if it was a forest. I manage to walk through them and see that there is a woman standing on the opposite side. Her husband is leaving her and as soon as he does I go to kiss her.

I am watching a documentary about a small company. I actually want to reuse it for my own company and only change the audio. I then see if everything works well especially as they show the back office where there are two programmers. They act as professional actors nodding their heads.

I am biking with an old friend and stop by a garbage bin where there are some boots. He puts them on but then bike straight to a shop to compare them with his shoes. They are the same brand but the latter are much bigger and the shop assistant says that there is no way to enlarge them.

I am in an apartment and look out of the window. It is actually raining and I notice that we are high up and that the apartment building bends all around. The roof is different at every bending and I imagine that where it is older it could be much cheaper although it is all made of metal.

I am in a garden peeling pine branches when my Dutch neighbour comes out with his wife and tells me that it is time to go. I then summon my wife and follow them but he tells me to go back because I left my door unlock. He means the door in the garden and I have no idea how he knows.

I am outside the school waiting for a teacher to pull out a secret drawer where she is hiding a book. She then gives to me and I realize I will soon have to go to prison. The only way to postpone my sentence is that I start beating her with a stick. She then convinces me that it is the best idea.

I am with a friend climbing up a volcano. It is one of the highest in the world and we end up on a metal platform close to the top. My friend is very afraid but I try not to look down and make a film of what we see in front of us. There is only another mountain and it looks like we are not high up.

I am walking down a road and see a girl jogging the other way. I then ask her if she was ever a sailor but does not reply. She probably think I am just a looser since I am not training but I have been walking for many kilometers and still feel very fit. I even manage to train against a fence.

I am on a field with my partner looking at our children going on the quad of a Swedish friend. Our daughter is sitting in front of him and our son is holding a bar in the back. The field is very steep and they drive down without issues but when they start driving up again I fear they can capsize.

I am at a bus stop with a man who owns a little house there. I actually want to live in another place where I can have a bigger garden for less money and I ask him if he also wants to do the same. He then tells me that he is stuck with his place and as he keeps on talking the last bus leaves.

I am in front of a garage training my spiritual friend. He has boxing gloves on and I take a piece of plywood thinking that I can hold it up while he hits it. It is very thin and fragile but I still think it is a good idea that I use it as a punching pad. As I try it I realize it can stand my friend's punches.

I am in a house and get a phone call from the mother of a dead friend. She wants me to inherit a nearby cemetery and I tell her to reach me. She then takes a cab and I wait for her outside. I see her coming with a basket filled with things to eat. I then wonder if she forgot about the inheritance.

I am in our living room discussing with a musician friend about his trip down south. He shows me on a map where he plans to go. It is all the way south where there are two big oranges next to one another. I then realize he wants me to drive there some equipment but I have my children.

I am having lunch with an old friend in a cabin. He has made for me a salad using leaves from the surroundings and I recognize a few edible leaves. Other leaves I cannot recognize and as I try to look at them from the distance I realize that my friend has just served me a big piece of moss.

I am inside the house of a famous sculptor. There is a bathtub in the kitchen and I think he should replace it with a shower so that he can have more space. He then shows me how beautiful it is the bade there with the window nearby and I agree. Meantime his children come home from school.

I am in a garage chopping wood with another man. There is a lot of dust everywhere and I just go around checking the different colours. He actually explains to me that his chainsaw is way too expensive to sharpen. He then takes another machine and gets a special file out that is not round.

I am in a forest working on a sculptural park with other artists. One of them wants to pour a block of cement in a patch and I really don't understand the concept behind it. He then explains to me that cement kills everything that is organic but that what is underneath it can be preserved.

I am in a big supermarket with my children. As they run around I search for a tank of gasoline I can use for my equipment in the mountains. I do find a tank with the same brand of what I normally use but realize that it is not gasoline but another type of chemical for another machine.

I am walking with my youngest son on my shoulders and make it up a hill. There is a forest on the top and as we go in it gets suddenly dark. I am really afraid some wolves could attack us and try to turn to search for my phone so that I can turn on the light. I cannot find it and try no to panic.

I am in a room with my oldest son. There are is a door to get in and a door to get out and we look at a big crowd of people passing in front of us. There are a lot of cute girls and they all stare at my son. As I wonder if they will ever dare to look at me one of them pushes me with her backpack.

I am walking in an ancient town with a guy. It is evening and we start holding hands not to fall in a nearby canal. I am actually quite thoughtless and just move my finger over the top of his hand. He then think I am trying to flirt with him but I explain that I have always been misinterpreted.

I am on top of a mountain with my children and see that a big storm is approaching. There is a couple standing on a cliff and I yell at them to make it quickly inside a cave. They decide to keep on walking and I go alone with my children inside it. We find it very big and comfortable.

I am inside an office talking to two editors. They decide to publish my book and give me a contract. I then go out and meet a the father of one of my kids' friends and tell him about it but then see that in the contract I have to give all my data to them so that I can have more time to focus.

I am in a small apartment with my mother. She is actually going out and tells me to start the dishwasher but there are still a lot of dirty dishes in the sink. I then find that there is a hidden level at the bottom of the washer. I can also put things in there and I begin with only glasses.

I am on a beautiful beach and see a fancy boat going slowly out of the bay. I then follow it with an inflatable mattress and reach a point where the water is very clear. I even have my phone with me and start taking selfies for m traveler friend. The phone gets in the water but it still works.

I am in an airport and see a row of people going through the security check. They are all dragging a bin and I understand that they are going to clean up an aircraft that just landed. As they get in another row of people comes out and I realize that they are all divided according to gender.

I am in a workshop talking to an artist about a print she made using laser machine similar to mine. She actually managed to do so with a special material that is natural. I then check it out and find it very solid and a good alternative I can also consider to do my photographic prints.

I am on a chairlift with a famous sculptor and remember that I used to go up the same mountain when I was little but with a surface lift. I felt more comfortable with the latter but try not to worry about it. As we approach the top the sculptor gets off but I am too late and crash with my skies.

I am in a small town and realize that my van is standing in a place where I am not allowed to park. I then move it to the end of the road in front of a condominium but a lady drives her car right before me and I hit another car. I don't want any trouble and just start driving away very fast.

I am in the lobby of a hotel and need to use the bathroom. I then walk up to a room that I find unlocked. I seat on the toilet and see that there is a woman outside the window checking out the traffic below her. Another woman is doing the same from her roof and can clearly see me poohing.

I am in front of my rich mountain neighbour house and he tells me that he has some terrains for sale. I then wish to talk to him about my project to make a sculptural park and he lets me in. As we are in his kitchen we start looking at a map with all the terrains but all the lines are faded.

I am walking along a coast with my two sons and come to a beautiful bay. We then decide to go for a swim there and leave our things next to two Swedish girls. As we get in the water I realize I still have my camera on my belt and go back to dry it up. There is quite some water inside.

I am in a hotel dragging the wooden frame of a bed down a staircase. I then reach a dormitory where other people are preparing their beds and manage to secure a space for myself. An Asian girl wants to use my bed and then a very disgusting American girl jumps naked on a guy next to me.

I am in a city with a group of friends and manage to jump across a small canal. We then walk across a park but then realize that there is a much bigger canal to cross. It is broader and we will never manage to jump across it. We then decide to dive inside but I first throw my equipment across.

I am at a Danish party at night looking at the fireworks. It is quite inspiring and I start singing a religious song but then see that there is a professional musician getting ready to play the piano. I sit down to hear him out but he is very bad both with the piano and especially with singing.

I am walking next to a river and see my Greek friend on a boat. We are going to have a party together and he is concerned about how many people I have invited since he thinks they are not going to fit in his boat. I also start wondering but then realize that I am also coming with my own boat.

I am in a dormitory with my oldest son. We are already laying in a bulk bed and he stays on the top while I stay in the bed below. His mother also comes and wants to lay with me. I really don't want her and I make it very clear to her until she finally decides to leave our room altogether.

I am in a condominium and find my youngest son at the bottom of the staircase. He is looking at a friend playing on the top with a metal vase. They are having a lot of fun but I find it dangerous and just walk to my apartment until the mother of the boy brings my son with a bump in his face.

I am entering a church knowing that there is an old monk who is going to attack me. I then get my gun ready and shoot him as soon as he comes out. My partner and children are waiting for me in our van and we drive to the airport but then I realize that I can get caught by the cameras there.

I am in a car with my uncle and need to make it down south. He then puts the destination on his phone but there are two possible ways to get there. One goes east and the other goes west. I very much prefer the one to the east and he listens to me but then he has to drive on sidewalks.

I am on a mountain looking at a bigger mountain. There is a path leading to it and it is very sunny and covered with snow. We actually just been there with my family and although it could be the right path I decide to anyway take a safer one inside the forest although it is very dark and creepy.

I am walking to a job interview with my oldest son. He is really worry that he still has to study and tells me that he will also need to learn Korean. I am very surprised but then realized that the university is Korean and he need to pass a proficiency test if he wants to continue study there.

I am in a restaurant sitting alone when the owner comes with a camera. He wants to interview me and start asking intelligent questions but there is another man being interviewed at the same time and I cannot concentrate. I then tell him to move and they do so but end up right behind me.

I am in my ark together with another artists who wants to make some changes. She then instructs her assistants to remove one of the large textures on the top floor. I rush up to stop them but it is too late and the texture fells back almost hitting the other workers who are in the middle.

I am in our van with my oldest son driving. He is doing quite okay and there is less than half an hour left so I decide to take a nap. As I wake up again I see that the time hasn't changed and realize that we are back where we started. He denies that he made a mistake and just wants to swap.

I am in a field setting up the sign for my new art project. As I am done I actually find that there is another sign nearby warning for dogs. I then realize that I am in someone else property and that there are two scary bulldogs looking at me. I slowly walk back but there is barbwire everywhere.

I am running down a hill and see that there is a white old caravan without car in the front driving up. I move to the side but it is too big and I end up going against it. The driver is not that concern and keeps on driving until it finally finishes to turn and I am able to move to one side.

I am walking in front of the entrance of a supermarket filled with immigrants. There are a lot of packages of water that have lids as large as the actual bottle. I pick on up and get ready to drink it but then realize I am not that thirsty. I put if back down even though I did open the big lid.

I am in a square with some gypsies sitting on one side. They have a beautiful daughter and I hear her with her mother talking about how good it is to see a dark man like me. I try not to care and walk forward but realize I have a straight pillow attached attached to my back and I feel awkward.

I am on a hill and see parachutes falling down the sky. I then run to a precipice where I can look at them but see that underneath there are young hunters waiting with their legs in a swamp. Some ducks fly up in the sky and they start to shoot at them but some of them are already roasted.

I am going out of an apartment I just bought and feel happy to know that I can always rented out. As I start walking down the marble staircase a cat just wants me to feed it. I really don't want to and reach another floor. It still gets on my feet and I manage to push it inside a room and leave.

I am on a train crossing the Italian countryside with my Polish friend and see that there is a family next to us. Their faces are very weird and I want to tell my friend that he should not get the wrong impression about Italian people. As I am about to tell him they start speaking Arabic.

I am in the attic of our Dutch house working on my laptop when I hear my partner coming up. There is actually a naked woman in the background of the program I am using and I cannot remove it. I then run downstairs and outside the house where I find a bathroom and jerk off in the sink.

I am at a beach with my best friend playing a nice Italian song. I really want to add it to my playlist and just wait for the refrain to hear the title. As I finally get it my sister wants my friend to rewind the song and play it from the start but I want to listen to it to the end and not anymore.

I am in a building with an Italian artist who is supposed to build an installation in one of my fields. He proposes a small structure made of two modules but I tell him to really go big with it. I actually convince him but then realize I wanted to build a green cathedral there using but now I cannot.

I am in an apartment with my stepfather and I make a joke saying that I don't mind to be with boys. He takes me seriously and wants to hug me. I really want to make sure he understands it is only a joke and walk out but he follows me and wants a kiss. He manages to kiss me in the mouth.

I am driving our van with my son. There is a speed camera and I realize that I am going faster than allowed. I then try to slow down for the next speed camera and accelerate only after I pass it. I think I have succeeded not to get another fine but the camera flashes the moment I have past it.

I am walking with my old friends and hear one saying something bad about me. He is actually adopted and I am tempted to ask him where his real father comes from but then decide to keep silent. We actually all make inside a van and start joking about getting one of us in the middle.

I am sailing with an old classmate and decide to make it all around an island. He then tells me how hard it is but then we realize we are stuck in a channel and there is a waterfall ahead. We make it through it and end up on an underground road where we need to pull our boat by hand.

I am walking with my spiritual friend in the countryside. We have no money and have not eaten for many days. As we approach a restaurant I see the owner opening the cash register and I just take some coins from him. We then run down a windy road until we meet some kids with a gun.

I am in an apartment of an old classmate who is giving my oldest son a job. As we wait for his mother I start doing the dishes but hear him talking to my partner. He wants her to sleep with her. He thinks I cannot pull back since my oldest son is now under him but I feel disgusted.

I am in a game room watching an immigrant helping two boys stealing a present. The owner sees them and the immigrant runs out and throws himself in the sea. He then swims around the coast and reach the refugee camp where he just starts watching television with other immigrants.

I am sitting on the stone frame of a temple. I do not feel well and I think it is because the rocks of the temple are not ancient enough. I then go sit where the rock is older but then realize how high up I am and how easy it is to fall down. I decide to slowly slide back to the arch where I came from.

I am driving with my oldest son and my partner. The latter tells me to stop next to a hill and I realize it is a burial mound. I then pull over next to some teenagers talking about how cold it is inside the mound. I really want to go in myself but my son just wants to keep on driving further.

I am watching a group of very powerful bikers who have to mutilate themselves in order to compete. One of them is already without a hand and he is asked by a younger biker to cut his hand. The older biker doesn't want to and in the end only cuts two of the fingers of the younger biker.

I am in front of an wooden door with an old lady. There should e a man inside but I knock and he doesn't open. She tries and he opens up. We then go in his house and she starts cutting old cloth to fix the back of my pants. She is very good in choosing the right pattern with a funny mouse.

I am with my uncle in front of a villa. He tells me it is mine and we go inside to check. It used to be a restaurant and all the tables are in a perfect state as if it could open that very day. I then imagine where I can put my room but just feel sad about having to get rid of the restaurant.

I am walking outside a mall when the husband of my twin sister calls me. I start talking to him but then I realize that I decided I don't want anything to do with them anymore. I hang up and I see that he tries to call me using the same number but with a profile photo that is now green.

I am in a square filled with palm trees. A sculptor is with me together with his girlfriend and I joke with him that he should use the trees to make his sculptures. He already uses trees to do so but from a northern climate. I don't want to get in any discussion with him and I just film the square.

I am in the living room of our Dutch house and see how messy the children have been leaving all their toys on the ground. I then fetch two baskets to put them inside and as I start filling them I hear my youngest son singing an old Italian song. The tune is wrong and I try to correct him.

I am in a disco when people start to dance and a girl also grabs me to dance with her. I do dance a bit but then realize that it is extremely late and I rather go home. I walk out of the disco and try to hitchhike back keeping the light on my phone on so that people can see and I can start walking.

I am in a post office with my oldest son when a man asks us to get in a chamber to pay our bill. We do so but get charged double the amount and manage to escape. We then check if we have everything with us and run to a station to get on a train to a bigger city from where to take a plane.

I am in a pizzeria about to pay the bill to a man my age. He actually recognizes me as one of his classmates from when we were little. I also recognize him and say that I even have a photo of me on my phone. As I start looking for it I make a big line of costumers behind me and have to give up.